small lots for family use this week; the price paid was 5 and 6 cents, net.

It is said that nearly every vacant house in the city has been rented recently.

OUR grocery merchants keep constantly on hand Northern cabbage

We hear of several crops of tobacco on the Southside, that sold for seven cents round this week.

were advertising their Christmas will be held by the presiding elder, Rev. J. A. Orman, at the Academy Sunday.

Judge A. G. Rhea, of Russellville, was stricken with paralysis Tuesday, and at this writing was very ill and but little hope of his recovery was entertained by his friends.

THERE will be another sale of tobacco at the Exchange next Tuesday, and if prices are as high as at the last one, it is probable that loose tobacco will still go a little higher.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the public school children in groups, were taken Monday. They will go with the Tennessee school exhibit to the New Orleans exposition.

THE ladies of the Methodist their orders at once.

THE trial of the Morrises and Dr.
Bellamy in the Criminal court this week has attracted general interest but has awakened no undue excitement. Everybody has been anxious to know the result of the trial, as is always the case in a locality where such a cause celebre is in court, but no one is overly excited about the matter.

THE "Pipe of Peace" smoking tobacco, manufactured by Mr. Ed. Ross at Rossville, near this city, is establishing a wide-spread and very deserved popularity. It needs no long felt want in supplying smokers with tobacco not turned out by the Virginia and North Carolina factories. We publish elsewhere in this issue a certificate from Mr.
George E. Purvis, of Nashville, in which he states that it is the best smoking tobacco he can find.

THE CHRONICLE is under many obligations to Jacob Keadler, Esq., for valuable assistance this week; the evidence in the Morrow-Bellamy trial was furnished us by him. The clear and comprehensive manner in which it is gotten up proves his quickness and accuracy in determining the salient points brought out in the testimony of witnesses. He is a bright young man and promises to attain the highest success at the bar.

Burned to Death.
A very distressing accident occured in South Clarksville Monday morning which resulted in the death of an estimable young lady of that portion of the city about 3 m. of the following day. Miss Rebecca Orrell, daughter of Mr.
Thos. Orrell, accidentally caught her clothes on fire and was frightfully burned before the flames could be extinguished. She and her mother had called at a neighbors.
The young lady was standing before the grate combing a child's hair when she unconsciously put her dress in contact with the fire. She was almost instantly enveloped in flames and ran screaming from the house. She reached the gate and fell. Her mother followed her there and succeeded in putting out the fire, but not until the unfortunate victim had been so badly burned that there was no hope of her recovery. Miss Orrell was about 18 years old. She was much liked by a large circle of friends, and her terrible and untimely death is a subject of the deepest regret.

Persons desirous of making small remittances, will find New York exchange to be the most convenient medium for both sender and receiver.
For remittance to Europe, exchange on New York can be made available and probably at less cost than by subscription to any newspaper, periodical, or magazine, issued daily, weekly, or monthly, we will furnish the exchange at par. This offer is made solely in appreciation of the unlimited good will manifested by the people for the Franklin Bank.

Very Respectfully,
W. S. POINDEXTER,
Cashier.

Dr. S. M. Bemis, a prominent physician of New Orleans, who is well known in Clarksville, died suddenly in the former city, Monday, the 17th inst. He was a professor in the medical department of the University of Louisiana and was appointed in 1875 by Congress to investigate the yellow fever epidemic. His wife was brought up in this city, and was a sister of Mr.
James Lockert and of Mrs. H. M.
Doak. The family own a residence here where they frequently spend their summers.

MR. GEO. R. HARRIS has opened a livery stable in this city, on Third street, opposite the Court House, and asks for a share of public patronage. His stable is well stocked with horses and vehicles, and he is prepared to feed and take care of animals that may be "put up" with him. His terms are reasonable, low as any in the city. Mr. Harris is well and favorably known to the people of this county and section, and will no doubt be liberally supported in the enterprise he has undertaken.

CHARLES PREWITT died at the residence of his father on the South-side, Sunday, Nov. 23, 1884, of typhoid fever, in the 19th year of his age. Charles was a kind and affectionate son, and was greatly loved by all of his acquaintances. He has been cut down just as he was entering manhood and beginning to be useful and a comfort to his aged parents. May he who tempered the winds, pour the oil of consolation into their bereaved hearts.

THE jurors on the Morrow case have our sincere sympathy and that of the general public. Any twelve innocent men who are condemned to sit for nearly four whole days listening to the speeches of a dozen or so lawyers are entitled to all the compassion that a sympathizing community can bestow upon them.
They ought to be exempted from jury service the rest of their lives.

THERE may have been some citizens of Clarksville of the masculine persuasion whose quantity of "cul-chah" was not fully up to an appreciation of the musical performances of the gentlemen from Boston, at the concert Monday night, but there was none with soul so dead that he didn't recognize the superior personal charms of Mrs. Berry.

Mr. Charles E. Barker, a popular young gentleman who resides in the northwestern part of this county, was married in Petersburg, Va., on the 26th inst., to Miss Mary Friend Lester, of that city. The young lady has visited Clarksville and has many friends here who will be glad to know that she will make her future home in this part of the world.

A reporter of this paper was invited, amongst other guests, to take Thanksgiving dinner at the Hughes House. The dinner was most bountiful, and was served in the very best style. This house is one of the great conveniences of the city, and we are glad to know that it is receiving a liberal patronage.

Thanksgiving day was observed in this city by the closing of the Post-office, the banks &c. Services were held in the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches. Nearly all of the Protestant denominations united in the services at the latter church. Turkey's were in their usual abundance and everybody had a good dinner who could afford one.

The evidence in the Morrow-Bellamy case was closed Wednesday at noon and was still being argued with several lawyers to hear from when this paper went to press, (Friday morning.) Nearly every member of the bar, great and small, had a shake at the jury.

THE MOZART CONSERVATORY CONCERT.
It is rarely, if ever, that the Elder Opera House has been filled with as large and appreciative an audience as that which assembled on Monday night to hear the concert provided by Mr. Wayne Wilson, and we are satisfied that the music was heard with an appreciation which augurs well for the encouragement of really good music among us.

The leading attractions for connoisseurs were the two instrumentalists.
Messrs. Werner and Streleki, both of national, if not of world-wide reputation; and the concert commenced with a Duo Concertante, executed by the two, well calculated to exhibit their consummate mastery of their respective instruments. It was the Introduction and Polonaise Op. 4 of Chopin.
Mr. Charles Werner is a thoroughly accomplished violinist, and it is not too much to say that whatever his instrument is capable of he can elicit from it. This versatility of power was well manifested in the piece already spoken of. Whether it was the noble breadth of expression which was demanded in the Introduction or the brilliant and fantastic effects of the Polonaise which tested his powers, both were equally brought out in all their force and beauty; the upper notes approaching in fineness and delicacy those of a good violin, while they surpassed them in full sonority of tone.
Again in the obligato accompaniment to Mrs. Ullathorne's singing it was the sympathetic quality of his playing which was most brought out, the instrument telling as a second voice, a singer singing supporting the contralto.
In a general way we have stated that the concert was of the highest quality, and one of our old called "La Musette" part of which was played in imitation of the musette, a species of small bag pipe in use in the south of France and Italy; the other a highly staccato effect (given as an encore), which suggested the idea of an air accompanied by a small drum. Finally Remenyi's Hungarian Rhapsodies combined all the effects with a skill and mastery which must be nearly unapproachable. We have said too much about this consummate artist for the space at our disposal, yet not half enough to express our own sentiments.
Anton Streleki the pianist, as we have said, first appeared in the Duo Concertante. It is a great merit, showing the true artist, that neither indulges in the vulgar ambition of trying to make his own part predominant, but each, with the modesty and reserve of the highest art, subordinated his own individuality to the ensemble of the composition. When his turn for solo playing did arrive, in the contrasted pieces of Chopin and Mendelssohn he showed his true grasp of the instrument as well as power of sympathetic interpretation while difficulties vanished before his perfect execution, making the most intricate passages seem easy to those who had never tried them. Nor was there less skill, though less manifestation of it, in the tact and judgment with which he accompanied Werner's solos.

Of the two ladies, it is only justice to them to explain that they neither of them, came forward as public singers, but rather as accomplished amateurs new to the incipient stage of a professional career. It would be injustice, therefore, to hold them up to the standard of professional eminence and we will only say of them that they both evince powers that will probably place them high hereafter in the profession, should they decide upon embracing it.

Mrs. Henry Berry has a soprano voice of clear resonance in the upper register with considerable flexibility, indeed flexibility seems to be the quality she has most aimed at, judging from the profusion with which she introduces the trill as an ornament.
Her selection of pieces points in the same direction, the two being the Nightingale's trill by Gans and the Bijou Song from Faust, in both of which she exhibited considerable executive accomplishments. The quality she needs to cultivate is a sustained intonation, her voice having a tendency to fluctuate when she sings either a long note or a protracted trill.

Mrs. Ullathorne has exactly the merits which Mrs. Berry lacks and lacks those which the other lady possesses. With a powerful voice she has a true and firm intonation but lacks flexibility. The precision of her intonation was admirably shown in the air of Gounod's, which she sang with Mr. Werner's 'cello obligato; nothing but absolute precision on the part of both artists could have produced that perfect accord without which the harmony would have been lost and the music sacrificed.

Shall we without offense advise each of these ladies to study the merits of the other, Mrs. Ullathorne to aim at the flexibility of Mrs. Berry, and the latter lady to strive to acquire the firmness and steadiness of intonation which distinguish Mrs. Ullathorne's method.

Of Mr. Downes we will only say that he is a clever gentleman and a thorough musician, but when he attempts Mozart's great aria, it is our painful duty to remind him that his voice was younger twenty years ago than it is now. We have long regarded that unpleasant conviction in the case of our own vocal powers such as they have been, but alas, no one can contend successfully against time. We give up some years ago, and would have done so with advantage a good deal earlier in life.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

J. P. Croson's Dramatic Company will present the great Union Square theatre success, "The Banker's Daughter," at the Opera House Monday night Dec. 1st. Reserved seats are now on sale at the book store. We clip the following extract from the Lynchburg, (Va.) News, Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1884:

Notwithstanding the unpropitious state of the weather, a large audience assembled at the Opera House last night to witness the performance of Bronson Howard's admirable drama, the "Banker's Daughter," by J. P. Croson's Company. The play was given with scrupulous regard to details, and nothing was omitted that could contribute to the entire success of the entertainment.
Every character was given an intelligent and artistic representation, and the audience manifested a thorough appreciation of the conspicuous efforts of the company.

The warehouse of Messrs. Hancock, Fraser & Ragdale, is nearing completion. It will all be under cover in a few days.

Our New County Jail.
Clarksville is enterprising and progressive to a large degree, and to keep up the fashion, consequently, we have more "enterprising" prisoners to take care of.

The addition to the county jail is a neat, substantial and ornamental piece of architecture, and does credit to the designer, Mr. C. G.
Rossmore. The new addition to the building is three stories high, and will contain twelve rooms.
The first floor, or dungeons, are very thick, the wall being of stone, two feet thick. After the first story, the walls are of Geo. Buck's best brick, and present an impregnable appearance. The cupola, which rises nearly twenty-five feet above the top of the old jail, is to be finished off in elegant style by cor-nicing. The different rooms in the building are to be supplied with iron cages, of which E. Gaiser & Son are the makers.

Had the county been able to remove the old building and build an entirely new one of the requisite proportion, it would have added much more to the appearance of the building. But when the work is completed we will have a much larger, handsomer, more substantial and commodious prison.

The Fat Stock and Seed Show.

Mr. M. V. Ingram, Secretary of the Farmers Association, requests us to say that the publication of the premium list of the fat stock and seed show, to be held in this city on the 16th, 17th and 18th of next month, has been unavoidably delayed, but will be made in a few days.
In a general way we have stated that the premiums will be offered for fat cattle, steers, heifers and calves for single hogs and sheep and pens of five or more each. About $500 in premiums will be offered on 150 different articles. Special premiums will be given on corn and tobacco, especially the latter. Any farmer having a seed head still standing is requested to take it up by the root so as to exhibit the plant in its natural growth; the leaves can be supplied. There are many other articles of farm produce, as well as fancy work and specimens of fine furs that the premium list will call for.
Let everybody exert himself to make a fine display. Remember that the exhibit is to be sent to the World's fair at New Orleans.

HYMENEAL.

Mr. C. W. Crutchfield and Miss Mabel Sarborough were married at the Methodist church in Paris, Tenn., at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening by Rev. Mr. Brooks. The attendants were Mr. W. B. Thomson and Miss Laura LeMaster of Clarksville, Mr. Charley Chambers and Miss Johnny Crutchfield, Mr.
George Porter and Miss Lute Le-Master, Mr. Sam Moore and Miss Anna Hicks. Mr. Albert Morton was Best Man.

Mr. W. L. Jackson and Miss Fannie E. Scott were married at the residence of the bride's father in the second district, this county at 1 p. m., Thursday the 27th inst., Rev. T. L. Moody performing the ceremony. A reception was given there at the residence of Mr. Thos.
J. Jackson Sr., in this city the same evening.

THE city public schools have prepared an exhibit for the New Orleans Exposition. It consists of photographs of the pupils, a file of annual reports of the Board of Education, examination papers, specimens of the pupils' handwriting and maps and drawings. The same exhibit was prepared for both the colored and white schools.
There is no distinction whatever between the two as to their management and advantages.

Dr. Thos. Rawlings died at his home near Guthrie, Ky., at one o'clock Friday morning the 28th.
His remains will be interred at Greenwood cemetery in this city at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. He was a well known citizen of the section in which he lived.

Mrs. Mahala Frederick, wife of Esquire Conrad Frederick, died at her home in the ninth district in this county Saturday, the 22d inst., of pneumonia, after an illness of three or four days. She was about 70 years old, and a most excellent lady.

Mr. Merrill, of Indiana, is in the city looking for a locality to locate an extensive pump factory. Clarksville is the place for him and we hope will so decide.

Mr. James T. Wood, real estate agent, has sold the Butler place, on Greenwood avenue, to Mr. Geo. W.
Buck, who will make it his residence.

"Sleeping Love."
A fine steel engraving of Peral's charming picture, "Sleeping Love," has been offered by the publishers of Godey's Lady's Book to every new subscriber to the magazine for the year 1885. The plate is a very artistic one, beautifully printed on thick paper of a size suitable for handsome framing. The subject, a little dimpled Love, adorned with nothing but his baby charms, is lying on a soft grassy couch, fast asleep among the wild flowers, his round, white limbs approaching the cool umbrage of a pond of water lilies. One little chubby hand rests lightly on his untrusting bow, which is lying under him, while the other hand is softly pressed upon his cheek, the plump fingers threading the wavy masses of his floating hair. Under the right arm and shoulder one little downy wing is snugly tucked away, while the other peeps up from his back with pretty suggestions. Overhead are drooping shadowy boughs covered with rich foliage, and the background reveals a deep perspective of cool forest shade.
The picture is one of striking simplicity, yet admirable composition and fluctuating yet admirably adapted to the figure of the "Sleeping Love" himself, with drooping eyelids and softly parted lips that offset the rounded beauty of babyhood, is one of the prettiest you could well conceive of.
Messrs. J. H. Haulbeck & Co., proprietors of Godey's Lady's Book, have produced this charming picture most successfully. It is much admired by some of the most fastidious connoisseurs.

LETTER FROM TEXAS.

To the Chronicle:
I promised in my last communication that I would give you something more of Texas when I saw more of it. Well, we are today in the midst of what these Texas people call "a Norther." The wind is blowing from the North pretty cold, but we Tennesseans don't think it very cold. We are used to ice and frozen ground in Tennessee when winter comes. When colder weather comes, the mud sticks closer to your feet than Tennessee mud does, but the winds dry it up much sooner than they do in our country. The past summer has been very dry in Texas, and crops short for this country, but corn can be bought from 30 to 35 cts. per bushel, fat hogs from 4 to 4 1/2 cts. per pound, out at 20 cts. per bushel, cotton from 9 to 10 cts. per pound. Dry as the year has been, the farms have yielded from 30 to 50 bushels per acre. Mr. Hask, of this neighborhood, said a few years ago he helped measure one acre of corn taken from a large field that measured up 120 bushels. It is a fine corn, oats, wheat and cotton country, and one of the best cattle countries in the world.

One peculiar trait of character among these Texas people, both men and women, is that when you put them on horseback they go as if they were after the doctor, or carrying a dispatch in time of battle. They go in a lope or run—they are an active people. These regular cow-boys can ride anything that goes on four legs. The only way they can be gotten off is for them to be thrown down and roll over, and then when he gets up he finds his rider on him. The motto of these boys is never to be left behind, and always to be on top.

Dallas is a growing city quite a business place. A few years ago was but a village of some five or six hundred inhabitants, but now of 25,000 or 30,000.
It is a beautiful place and a great deal of business is done here. There are a great many Tennesseans here, and I am glad to say they have a good reputation as industrious men. I hear of each man as Dick Richardson and John Day performing the country, and a fine reputation follows them, but it could not be otherwise with such parents as they had in old Tennessee.

Texas, the empire state, swept the field for Democracy. She carried everything from the lowest to the highest office for the party. She is denominated the "Lone Star State," and the last fight she has made has increased her lustre to the first magnitude in the galaxy of States. She is proud of her victory.

Tell the Southside we are all well except Ruby, my baby. She was sick when we left Nashville, and we brought her along, thinking it would help her.
She is improving gradually.

Tell my stewards for Antioch I will be at Martha's Chapel at the steward's meeting if not providentially prevented. If I should not get there at the meeting tell them to do by me as best they can and I shall feel thankful. I have full confidence in my official board. I will make up for all lost time when I come.

New Livery Stable.

I take pleasure in stating to the people of Montgomery and surrounding counties that I have opened a Livery and Trade Stable on Third street, near the court house, with twenty yards of the court house. I will feed and hire as cheap as any man in Clarksville, and if you put horse leaves under and sweet hay in the manger and I will curried and rubbed off when he goes out. I have good horses, good buggies and a good hack, and will let them out on reasonable terms. Water works in the stable and facilities for taking care of 100 lbs. of stock in the city. My friends to give me their induence and patronage.

Respectfully,
Geo. K. HARRIS, Agent.

Gulfstream Dairy Farm (Poston Place).
For Sale.

This is one of the most convenient and delightful farm homes about Clarksville. The place contains 64 acres, is just out of the corporation limits within ten minutes walk of the court house; the residence a large brick building with fifty rooms, two halls and cellar, stable with capacity for horses, a good cistern and a splendid spring of water, and a beautiful view of
